

Hotline Program Includes:

- Access to the Fraud Hotline, 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, which is answered by a trained fraud investigator
- Hotline materials to place within your company's facilities

Why does my company need a fraud hotline?

The Sarbanes-Oxley Act requires publicly traded companies to provide a confidential way for employees to report fraudulent and wrongful behavior. This is accomplished through an employee hotline that may be used to report suspected fraudulent and wrongful behavior, yet remain anonymous. By using a third-party reporting source, employees feel their concerns will be handled with complete anonymity.

What types of issues may be handled with a fraud hotline?

This program encourages and provides anonymity to employees who call to report issues affecting them, their co-workers or the company. Our professionals are trained to handle a variety of irregular activity, including:

- Fraudulent behavior
- Falsification of company records
- Tampering of data
- Theft
- Misuse of company assets
- Theft of trade secrets
- Violations of state or federal laws
